

Our Horizons are Expanding in the East...

Providing the “Best Talent” to the Industry.

Old Republic Construction Program Group (ORCPG) announces the appointment of Jonathan Oppenheim, a 23-year construction insurance executive, as Senior Vice President of our Eastern Regional Operations.

As we continue to expand our business throughout the Eastern states, the clients we serve are becoming more complex and diversified. Jon’s management skills and his extensive experience in the region and the industry will serve our staff and our customers well as we strive to deliver distinctive value to our broker partners and construction clientele. In addition to leading our existing offices in New York and Baltimore, Jon will be opening operations for us in Atlanta.

Jon joins us from Willis’ Construction Practice Group where he served as Executive Vice President. With both regional and national responsibilities, Jon managed Willis’ Melville New York office including its construction business segment and also set national protocols and placement strategies for middle market accounts.

Joan Miles, ORCPG’s President and Chief Executive Officer notes, “Jon will contribute greatly to the strategic and organizational initiatives already underway and I welcome him to our team.”

Jon holds a Bachelor of Business Administration degree, specializing in Risk Management from the University of Georgia.
